

Quality Mentors Usefulness: Comparison Between Chinese and American Universities

Juan Lin, Wuchang University of Technology

Mo Sepehri, University of the District of Columbia

Abstract

While Quality Mentors (QMs) serve an important role in Chinese universities, their role in American colleges/universities remain unclear. Research have shown that most Chinese universities adopt similar QM practices, so our initial sample includes QMs from one institution; more institutions will be added. First, we establish whether QMs in China are effective/efficient in helping students graduate successfully. Then, we plan to compare/contrast both systems to explore insights on how the development of QMs can be further promoted.